

HONOR WALTER W. MORRISON AT BIG FRIENDSHIP DINNER

Presentation to Recorder of Aleppo Temple of Purse of $1000—500 Attend Birthday Party at Hotel Statler

"For he's a jolly good fellow."

Thus they greeted Walter W. Morrison, guest last evening of more than 500 at Hotel Statler at one of the largest friendship dinners ever given in New England. Past potentate of Aleppo Temple and its present efficient recorder, few men in Shrinedom or in Masonry enjoy greater popularity.

It was particularly to felicitate him on his 73d birthday that last evening's affair was arranged by a committee representing his many friends, comprising Clarence J. McKenzie, assistant rabban of Aleppo Temple; William Soptiswoode and Frank W. Morrill.

There was a reception at 7 o'clock, and dinner was served half an hour later in the big ballroom. There were 10 at each table.

Clarence J. McKenzie was toastmaster and with him at the head table

He introduced as the first speaker Potentate Roy A. Faye of Aleppo Temple, who received a fine ovation. Potentate Faye declared that Walter Morrison had made Aleppo the finest temple in North America. He described him as a man whose friends are scattered over the four quarters of the globe. He read a flock of letters and telegrams felicitating the honor guest and expressed the hope that he would long continue to radiate his fine spirit and sincere friendship to the advantage of those who knew and loved him.

Messages of Love and Esteem

Past Imperial Potentate Clarence M. Dunbar offered his congratulations and brought a message of love and esteem from Imperial Potentate Esten A. Fletcher. Maj Bolton, speaking for the patrol, told of his long association with Walter Morrison, a man, he said, who saw something good in everybody,
